For Students whose first language isn't English

We have welcomed a number of international students on our training programs, and they have performed well in the exams.

We have implemented a number of measures to support those whose first language is not English.

- Extra time is incorporated into the time allowed to complete the exam
- An unmarked printed language dictionary may be brought to the exam
- Trainer present at classroom course exams can explain questions in other words
- Avoided using acronyms and used international English words in exam
- No testing of writing abilities, and consideration made for language differences
